

Current Imperatives In Understanding Poverty

CEPA's Colloquium on Poverty Research
30th June– 2nd July 2011

Ceylon Continental Hotel, Colombo, Sri Lanka

In 2011 the Centre for Poverty Analysis (CEPA) marks 10 years of poverty research and dialogue in Sri Lanka. We celebrate this milestone with a Colloquium in Colombo, Sri Lanka, on “Current Imperatives in Understanding Poverty”. While huge strides have been made in reducing the incidence of poverty in Sri Lanka and the South Asian Region, many issues that can contribute to well being are left out of the discourse, or are as yet insufficiently explored or understood. At the Colloquium, we aim to bring some of these 'forgotten' issues to the forefront of the development agenda:

- Impact of the environment
- Post crisis recovery
- Ageing population
- Horizontal inequality
- Leisure, recreation and inequality

The colloquium is open to local and international researchers, practitioners, academics, students, private sector and civil society representatives with an interest in the topics listed above. Simultaneous translations will be available in Sinhala and Tamil.

Registration fee is Rs 2000. Students (with a valid student card) Rs. 750.

Please register for the colloquium by filling out the registration form available on our website www.cepa.lk/colloquium

Poverty is an injustice that must be overcome.
